

Code of Conduct

Geek-X-Talk - A technical talk series envisioned to induce awareness in Science and Technology and collaborating with Alumni for shared learning.

The importance of shared learning is the primary objective of conducting this talk series. We not only want to make this a technical knowledge enriching experience but also fun and interactive for overall development. The importance of sharing and growing is only sustainable with the expectation that each domain of participants – Organizers, presenters and audience shall maintain reverence and courteous behavior towards one another, throughout the whole event.

Therefore, every domain of such participants involved in coordinating the talk series shall be subjected to the following “Code of Conduct”. The same shall be enforced strictly on every episode of this talk series. The participants can reach us personally on the venue or e-mail us directly at geekonix@gmail.com should they have any questions or concerns.

- Geekonix in association with the Geekonix Alumni Association coordinates the Geek-X-Talk which is targeted for any science-technology enthusiast audience irrespective of gender, race, religion, physical disability, sexual orientation. The talks are conducted in academic institutional venue; hence any kind of un-social/un-academic attention shall not be accepted.
- The participants – Speakers, organizers, fellow audience are highly educated individuals who are coming together for knowledge sharing experience. Hence, we expect professional courtesy and respect towards fellow participant’s views.
- Inappropriate use of language or activities are strictly prohibited.
- Recording the event on any digital capturing device is allowed as long as it does not hinder the uninterrupted proceeding of the talk.
- The talk primarily is targeted for the audience solely comprising of Students of Techno India, Salt Lake (Kolkata) or any alumni such. Guests are allowed with prior permissions from the organizers.
- Failing to oblige by any of the above shall result in immediate removal from participation in this event or permanently barring from this series. Request for re-entry shall require approvals from the organizers on later date.